

SLADA to Host NADA Virtual Seminars on New Federal Union Legislation and the Red Flag Rule

“Responding to Organized Labor: Defending Workplace Democracy”

Thursday, March 12, 2009

12:00pm-1:30pm

This NADA virtual seminar will be presented by D. Gerald Corker, a partner at the law firm Ford & Harrison LLP.

This seminar will address current and proposed federal labor legislation, analyze how the new Employee Free Choice Act (which becomes law this year) would affect union organizing strategies at dealerships, and present a 10-Point Strategic Action Plan for dealerships to reduce potential vulnerability and improve employee relations.

“A Deeper Dive into the FTC Red Flags Rule”

Thursday, March 26, 2009

12:00pm-2:00pm

This NADA virtual seminar will be presented by attorneys from the FTC’s Division of Privacy and Identity Protection and NADA Regulatory Affairs Director, Paul Metrey.

This seminar will assist dealers in understanding how the Red Flag Rule applies to dealership operations by recapping the required elements of the Red Flag and Address Discrepancy Rules and examining implementation considerations for dealers.

Both virtual seminars will be hosted at the SLADA Office
13616 Manchester Road
St. Louis, MO 63131

RSVP by calling Katie Heineman at 314-822-0333 or e-mailing
kheineman@stlautos.com

Normally the cost of attending one of these NADA Virtual Seminars is $199 per computer connection. SLADA is hosting these seminars and covering this cost so that you can benefit from these informative seminars at no cost to you.
